27 NOV 1973

MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Central Intelligence
FROM : Deputy Director of Central Intelligence
SUBJECT : CIA Comments on Key Intelligence Questions for FY 1974

1. The comments from DDS&T, DDO, and DDI reflect general agreement that many of the Key Intelligence Questions you listed in your memorandum of 30 October are still too broadly worded to serve one of the intended purposes; i.e., to permit us to measure with any degree of accuracy whether we have made progress toward answering them. Moreover, many of the Questions seem to be aimed at long-range considerations rather than at covering the short-run period (through FY 1974) as specified in your covering memorandum.

2. The attachment represents a consolidation of CIA efforts to re-write many of the Questions in an effort to sharpen their focus. We believe that our performance in answering the Questions, as we would have them amended, would be amenable to measurement. In several instances we are also proposing the addition of several new Questions that we believe meet your criteria for "Key" intelligence items.

3. I realize that the suggested additions would make the list of Key Intelligence Questions much longer and more comprehensive than you would like. On this basis, I recommend that you ask the NIOs to review this list and the other suggested changes you receive and that the NIOs recommend to you a revised list of Key Intelligence Questions for distribution to the Intelligence Community.

Soviet Nuclear Weapons

Delete: Impact of termination of underground testing (e.g., a comprehensive test ban) on development and deployment of Soviet nuclear warheads.

Comment: We know of no unusual pressure for a CTB that requires an answer to this question in FY 74, though it may be a legitimate question for long-range planning.

Soviet Long Range Aviation

(New) - Soviet development of air-launched stand-off weapons, particularly for the Backfire

Soviet Naval Systems

(New) - Soviet efforts and progress in improving the command and control of their SSBN/SLBM forces

Warsaw Pact - NATO Balance

(New) - Determination of Warsaw Pact force composition

(New) - Evaluation of the role and status of MRBM/IRBM forces as a factor in MBFR

Soviet Strategic Defensive Systems

- Soviet development of aircraft weapon systems with improved capability to intercept low altitude aircraft

(New) - Soviet capabilities to use mobile tactical SAMs to fill gap in low altitude strategic air defense

- Soviet development of laser weapons for both target kill and non-kill

(New) - Soviet efforts and progress in advanced early warning -- OTH and space-based techniques

Soviet Space Systems (new subject area)

- Soviet plans and progress toward using space systems for strategic communications, command and control, and reconnaissance

NARCOTICS

The production of and trafficking in illicit narcotics is a worldwide problem. So long as the narcotics problem continues to be of major concern in the United States, the intelligence community can expect to be involved in acquiring narcotics information. Key intelligence questions are:

Narcotics Traffic

- Identification of the major narcotics producers/traffickers and their principal collaborators; their vulnerabilities to prosecution, exposure and disruption of their networks
- Location of specific production areas, laboratories, and storage facilities
- Methods, routes, and timing of the movement of narcotics destined for the United States
- (New) - Capabilities and intentions of foreign governments to deal with the international narcotics problem

ECONOMICS

The Oil Problem

- Changes which are likely to occur in oil producers' policies or negotiating positions that may affect the cutback and price measures undertaken in conjunction with the Middle East crisis
- Prospective major long-or-short-term deals being negotiated between the OECD countries, especially France and Japan, or the EC as a whole, with the oil producing countries
- (New) - The effect of the oil shortage on European perceptions of the Western alliance and on their defense capability

A fourth subheading should be added after subheading three on World Crop Prospects, to read as follows:

TOP SECRET

It is suggested that the following additional miscellaneous topics be added to the list of key questions:

NUCLEAR PROLIFERATION

- The intentions and activities
relating to the development of nuclear weapon capabilities

25X1

LAW OF THE SEA

Increasing competition for the use of ocean and seabed resources has stimulated the international community to attempt to devise new rules and dramatically new institutions to control use of the marine environment. An international Law of the Sea Conference will be held in the summer of 1974, and considering the importance of the issues and the strong divergent views held by the various nations, these negotiations may well go far beyond 1974. The outcome of these negotiations are recognized as having serious military, economic, and political implications for the U.S. The key intelligence questions are:

Negotiations

- Attitudes and intentions of key countries and blocs of countries on the contentious issues

Prospects for Confrontation

- Factors involved in the numerous special marine situations, such as semi-enclosed seas, offshore islands, island states, and the likelihood that any of these will lead to crisis and confrontation
